FROM THE IACA PRESIDENT

OUR VISION MOVING FORWARD

As we look to the future, IACA remains committed to leading from the front in our practices, and advocating for the early inclusion of arboricultural expertise in urban planning and construction.

The institute is also focused on expanding our reach and membership, ensuring that more professionals have access to the resources, networks, and support that IACA provides. Through initiatives like our webinars, forums and collegial discussions, we are dedicated to the continuous professional development of our members, ensuring they remain at the forefront of industry standards and practices.

Glenn Bird | President, IACA

INSTITUTE OF AUSTRALIAN CONSULTING ARBORICULTURISTS

SHAPING THE FUTURE OF THE URBAN FOREST

The Institute of Australian Consulting Arboriculturists (IACA) is uniquely positioned as the peak body for consulting arborists across Australia, to elevate the role of urban forests and tree management throughout the design and construction industry.

Established in 2003 to serve and support independent professional consulting arborists, IACA is dedicated to fostering best practices, promoting research, and advocating for sustainable urban tree management. As the construction and design landscapes evolve, the importance of integrating expert arboricultural insights from the planning phase cannot be overstated. When working with a consulting arborist, it is important that they offer independent and unbiased expertise so that their advice on tree identification, management, protection, health and the impacts of development optimises the sustainable future of the green canopy in the context of urban development.

ROLE IN DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION

All IACA Accredited Members are minimum AQF Level 5 qualified, and can assist on any scale of development project starting from the site analysis stage or earlier to allow for the retention of suitable trees within property development projects.

A Consulting Arborist should provide Preliminary Arboricultural Assessment of trees on a site, input to minimise impacts at design stage and Arboricultural Impact Assessment reports for submission to the consent authority, as well as involvement on site throughout works to advise on tree protection measures and work methods.

Accredited IACA members work to ensure that tree protection and sustainability are central to urban development. Early involvement of an Arboriculturist not only facilitates compliance and enhances environmental outcomes but also streamlines the approval process, making project implementation smoother and more cost-effective.

MEMBERSHIP

IACA categories of membership welcome a wide array of professionals into the fold. Membership allows for involvement and collaboration with fellow professionals, aiming to improve the skills, knowledge and work practices of all arboriculturists, and forward focused members of related professions.

Accredited Members have been assessed by a panel reviewing a submission of the member's professional work. Associate Members are qualified Consulting Arboriculturists or students of an Arboriculture diploma or higher, who are working towards Accreditation. Affiliate Members are those who do not work in Consulting Arboriculture but have an Arboriculture qualification and work in a related industry.

Each type of member plays a unique role within the community, contributing to the diverse symbiotic ecosystem of skills and knowledge that defines IACA.

JOIN THE INSTITUTE

As the Institute advances, it invites professionals from the design, construction, and arboricultural sectors to join in the mission to promote sustainable urban forests. Whether through membership, collaboration on projects or participation in forums and educational events, involvement will contribute to the betterment of urban environments across Australia.

IACA wants to work together to shape a greener, more sustainable future. Visit the new IACA website to learn more about membership eligibility and how to be part of its vibrant professional community. Collaboration between arborists and the professions they work with can make a difference to urban forests and the communities that thrive among them.

A list of IACA Accredited Members is located on the IACA website. Contact an IACA Accredited Consulting Arboriculturist today.

MANAGING URBAN TREES

FROM THE QAA PRESIDENT

As we move through another busy and exciting year for arboriculture, I'm proud of how far the Queensland Arboricultural Association (QAA) has come—and even more excited about where we're headed.

The QAA continues to focus on what matters most: supporting our members, raising industry standards, and promoting the value of professional tree care across Queensland and Northern New South Wales. Whether it's through education, events or advocacy, our goal is to ensure arborists are safe, skilled, and seen as trusted professionals in their field.

One of our biggest priorities is encouraging ongoing learning and development. From hands-on workshops and national competitions to specialist forums and safety conversations, we're committed to helping arborists grow in confidence and capability at every stage of their career.

It's also important that we continue to build a sense of community. Arboriculture isn't just a job — it's a passion and a purpose. Through connection, collaboration and shared knowledge, we can keep raising the bar for safety, sustainability and professionalism across the industry.

To our members, supporters, and future members, thank you for being a part of this journey. The more we work together, the stronger our industry becomes.

Jan Paterson | President, QAA

QUEENSLAND ARBORICULTURAL ASSOCIATION INC

ASSOCIATION PROFILE

The Queensland Arboricultural Association Inc. (QAA) is the peak industry body representing arborists — professionals in the care and management of trees, across Queensland and Northern New South Wales.

Founded in 1992, QAA is a not-for-profit organisation that has spent more than 30 years advocating for industry standards, arborist safety, and public awareness around the value of trees. Through targeted education, practical training, and industry events, we support best-practice arboriculture and foster professional excellence.

MISSION STATEMENT

QAA's purpose is to preserve, protect, maintain and enhance the recreational and environmental value of trees.

As the industry evolves, QAA leads by example — supporting arborists and their businesses by:

- Developing new educational topics and delivery methods
- Participating in safety and compliance discussions
- Creating opportunities for professional connection
- Giving back to the arboricultural community

QAA MEMBERSHIP CATEGORIES

QAA welcomes all individuals and businesses working in arboriculture. Membership categories include:

- Approved Register of Contractors and Consultants*
- Qualified Member
- Corporate Member
- General Member
- Student Member

Eligibility criteria include Diploma Arboriculture (AQFV) qualification for Consultants and AQF Certificate III in Arboriculture for Contractors, appropriate levels of experience for respective registers and current insurances including professional, product and liability insurances.*

MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS

Members gain access to:

- Discounted industry insurance
- Reduced rates for events, workshop and training
- Arbor Age magazine (bi-monthly)
- Free advertising on the QAA website for employment positions
- A professional community that shares knowledge and support

APPROVED REGISTER MEMBER BENEFITS

QAA's Approved Register members receive additional benefits, including:

- Listing on QAA's publicly accessible Register, used by government, councils, QCAT and clients
- A dedicated profile with verified credentials
- Increased visibility as a qualified, professional arborist

QAA SPONSORS

QAA is proud to work with sponsors who champion safety, education and innovation in arboriculture. Their support helps deliver high-quality industry programs and events.

QAA gratefully acknowledges sponsors across the following categories: Industry Support, Education, Gold, Silver and Bronze

Interested in becoming a sponsor? Contact QAA to explore partnership opportunities.

LISTED ARBORISTS IN ODS

GREEN BUILDING COUNCIL OF AUSTRALIA

COMPANY PROFILE

Green Building Council of Australia (GBCA) is the nation's authority on sustainable buildings and communities. Its mission is to accelerate the transformation of Australia's built environment into one that is healthy, liveable, productive, resilient and sustainable. GBCA works with government and its 600+ member companies across industry to encourage policies and programs that support its mission. GBCA educates thousands of people each year on how to design and deliver sustainable outcomes for Australia's buildings and communities through many courses and events. The Council also operates Australia's only national, voluntary, holistic rating system for sustainable buildings and communities — Green Star.

GREEN STAR

Founded in 2003, Green Star is an internationally recognised rating system setting the standard for healthy, resilient, positive buildings and places. In order for a project to achieve certification, project teams must demonstrate how their project meets Green Star credit criteria within a range of impact categories. This is assessed using Green Star's robust, transparent and independent assessment process. Developed for the Australian environment, Green Star has certified thousands of sustainable fitouts, buildings, homes and communities right across the country with the aim of:

- Reducing the impact of climate change
- Enhancing health and quality of life
- Restoring and protecting the planet's biodiversity and ecosystems
- Driving resiliency in buildings, fitouts, and communities
- Contributing to market transformation and a sustainable economy

GREEN STAR COMMUNITIES

The Green Star Communities rating tool addresses sustainability at the precinct scale. From airports and universities to urban renewals and master planned residential developments, more than 800,000 people live and work in a certified Green Star Community in Australia.

Green Star Communities drives outcomes across climate action, nature and biodiversity, and equity and inclusion to ensure our cities and communities are healthy, vibrant and resilient places for all.

HORTICULTURAL CONSULTANTS

THIS CHAPTER PROVIDES INFORMATION ON

Horticultural Consultants

FROM THE AIH PRESIDENT

AIH members are highly skilled industry professionals, experts in their field, attuned to nature, offering extensive plant life knowledge and environmental management to ensure a sustainable outcome for any horticulturally-based project.

AIH members have access to a range of membership categories (Registered Horticulturist, Horticulturist and Friends of Horticulture) and network benefits to suit their business or level of professional interest. The Institute supports our members' enterprises by showcasing their profiles and promoting our members in Australia and overseas.

The AIH encourages and develops Australian and international relationships with likeminded organisations delivering excellent outcomes for both our members and the public.

We are the only recognised professional organisation to offer an accrediting scheme, the Registered Horticulturist, for qualifying horticultural practitioners. The accreditation is supported by a diverse professional program that promotes qualified, experienced professionals to government, commercial and private sectors.

For nearly ten years, AIH has been invested in promoting the Green Space Awards, which showcase urban and regional greening projects around Australia. These awards have acknowledged some of the fine work designers, developers, horticulturists and industry professionals have performed in the greening of our built environments.

AIH stays committed to campaigning and advocating for the inclusion of green spaces into our built environment. We celebrate the achievements of those committed to this green inclusion.

AIH is committed to continuing to lead the profession of horticulture nationally and in our neighbouring countries, promoting excellence and environmental responsibility in horticultural practice through quality professional development, service and advocacy.

Alan Burnell MAIH, RH (Ret) | President, Australian Institute of Horticulture Inc.

AUSTRALIAN INSTITUTE OF HORTICULTURE INC.

ASSOCIATION PROFILE

The Australian Institute of Horticulture (AIH) is the national industry body representing professional horticulturists across Australia and South-East Asia. The AIH encompasses a wide variety of occupations and consulting roles associated with the plant sciences, such as arboriculture, landscape design, production and wholesale nurseries, parks and public gardens, domestic landscape maintenance, research and development, biodiversity and natural resources, education and training and horticultural media.

AIMS OF THE INSTITUTE

- To promote and represent horticulturists to government, industry and the public.
- Maintain a code of ethics for professional horticulturists.
- Uphold and promote the quality of horticultural services provided by its members.
- Assist in the development of standards and the establishment of benchmarks for horticultural best practice.
- Improve the quality and selection of plants.
- Improve the physical environment through the appropriate selection and use of plants.
- Enhance biodiversity.
- Advance horticultural research and development.
- Assist and promote horticultural education and training.
- Promote strategic alliances and networking.

AIH MEMBERSHIP

AIH membership is available to trained professionals, students and plant lovers alike.

Those with qualifications in horticulture or an allied field, or, in some cases, relevant industry experience can join as either a Registered Horticulturist or Horticulturist.

Students from AIH preferred training providers receive free membership, and those with a keen interest in plant life who are aligned with the ethos of AIH can join as Friends of Horticulture.

Membership benefits include, but are not limited to:

- Free access to a large network of varied member expertise
- User-friendly and interactive website for promoting members
- Professional development program tailored to the profession by AIH
- Seminars/workshops
- AIH Insurance Scheme
- Discount preferred suppliers
- Education and training grants program

REGISTERED HORTICULTURIST

AIH is the only accrediting body for the national Registered Horticulturist (RH) program, which is internationally recognised.

Landscape Contractors

THE LANDSCAPE ASSOCIATION NSW AND ACT

ASSOCIATION PROFILE

Founded over 40 years ago, The Landscape Association (TLA) is now the leading industry association for landscape professionals in New South Wales and the ACT. Representing hundreds of landscape businesses, TLA has overseen and nurtured the growth of the industry and the reputation of the landscaping field in today's modern economy.

As a truly collaborative organisation, membership is open to every area of the landscaping sector, including professionals working in design, construction, maintenance, trade service provision, landscape supply, as well as educational institutions. Small or large, residential or commercial, rural or urban, there is a membership package to suit the needs of every business. TLA seeks to create a spirit of cooperation, where members openly share skills and knowledge with their colleagues for the benefit of the industry. We also seek to forge strong bonds and working relationships with other industries, associations, government bodies and key stakeholders both locally and on a broader stage.

TLA actively promotes a positive perception of the landscaping industry be publicising and highlighting the outstanding skills of its members through a variety of channels and social media. TLA members have developed a well-earned reputation for professionalism and craftsmanship, experience, knowledge and creativity. As part of a drive to encourage and endorse the very highest standards in the field, TLA hosts an annual TLA Landscape Excellence Awards, where the most exceptional projects of the year are presented, recognised and applauded by the whole industry.

Landscaping is an industry vital not only to those working in it, it also shapes society's natural environment, now and for future generations. TLA acts as a united voice for its membership on crucial industry-wide issues, helping to shape the future of the landscaping sector and protect the vitality of the industry it serves. It represents the views of members on issues such as environmental initiatives, sustainability, working conditions, WHS, education and certification.

Ensuring the right macro conditions for a thriving and successful industry is important. TLA recognises that the success of individual businesses is just as vital. Individual member benefits are designed to support businesses at every stage, from inception right through to large-scale growth.

MEMBER BENEFITS

A TLA membership package is your voice in the industry, as well as your key to concrete, day-to-day business assistance. TLA provides members with a suite of services and resources tailor-made specifically to meet the needs of modern landscaping businesses. With TLA in your corner, your business will run more smoothly and profitably and can even help you achieve your company's strategic goals. A TLA membership represents true value for money with the potential to save your business thousands of dollars and improve your bottom line.

- Resources | TLA can put a bank of landscaping business resources at your fingertips with hundreds of tools such as client contact templates, employment contracts, fact sheets, WHS videos, industry standards and much more.
- Services and advice | The complexities of modern business can be tricky, especially for new business owners. TLA can help you with advice and services such as arbitration and dispute resolutions, industrial relations information, insurance advice and referrals for workers compensation, public liability and HBC insurance, as well as apprenticeship referrals.
- Rates guide | The TLA Schedule of Rates for Landscape Works has long been the industry bible for ensuring you can respond with quick, accurate quotes for clients. Its latest edition is now a digital resource allowing you and your workforce to access it anywhere, anytime, even when you don't have access to the internet. All members receive complimentary access to the Guide, with an RRP of $400 annually.
- News | Keep up to date with the latest information on everything from tax changes to best-practice techniques through regular emails, newsletters, meetings and seminars.
- Members rewards program | The members rewards program offers great discounts on all kinds of landscaping business supplies and services, including automotive purchases, equipment, building materials, plants and finance.
- Networking, publicity and social events | With hundreds of TLA members representing every area the landscaping sector, events are a unique opportunity to make great business ties as well as life-long friends. Many members relish the regular face-to-face gatherings to share experiences, gain advice from colleagues, and to create excellent working relationships and networks.
- Professional development | Learning is a constant part of any successful professional's life. Whether you want to stay up to date with the latest trends, the newest technologies and industry innovation or enhance your skillset, professional development is essential. TLA hosts many events, seminars, discussion panels, business presentations and the like where long-standing members and other industry stakeholders freely share their experience, knowledge and skills with younger tradespeople. It is an opportunity to give back to the industry that has given so much to them. TLA also facilitates mentorships and support apprenticeships helping to make industry success more accessible and to support Australia to overcome the current skills shortage.
- TLA Landscape Excellence Awards | These annual awards celebrate the very highest standards and achievement in landscape construction, design and maintenance, both in the residential and commercial sectors. Recognising innovation, creativity and outstanding craftsmanship, the Excellence awards are the highest accolade in the industry, and the awards ceremony is our industry's night-of-nights.

WEBSITE & DIRECTORY

The TLA website acts as a one-stop-shop for customers looking to hire landscape professionals. It provides advice to the public regarding how to hire the right professional for the job to ensure they get the job done right first time, every time. Customers also feel reassured that when they hire a TLA member, they will be hiring a licensed professional that is financially secure and experienced.

Each member receives a listing in the fully searchable directory that allows them to showcase their previous work, references and other relevant information for potential clients.

These are just a small part of the excellent service TLA offers to its members. If you would like to know more about how a membership with your industry body can help your business, visit the website or call its friendly team. You can also learn more about the latest events and professional development opportunities TLA offer every month.

FROM THE MLSA CEO

2026 has been another year of significant progress for Master Landscapers of South Australia (MLSA), with a strong focus on strengthening our members, building professional pathways and establishing services that provide practical value to the landscaping industry.

One of the most significant developments in the past 12 months has been the introduction of MLSA's Trade Endorsed Professionals (TEP) scheme. The scheme represents an important next step in recognising the skills, knowledge and experience that exist within our industry. TEP provides a structured assessment pathway for individuals seeking an Occupational (Trade) Recognition Certificate, issued through the South Australian Skills Commission. This gives experienced landscapers an opportunity to have their existing skills formally assessed and recognised, particularly where their knowledge and practical experience have been developed through years of working within the industry.

We have also seen growth in our licensing assistance service. Since its introduction, we have experienced a strong uptake from members seeking guidance through the licensing process. Licensing can be complex and, for many businesses, navigating the requirements can be challenging. Our service has been developed to provide members with practical assistance and greater confidence in understanding what is required, while supporting businesses as they progress towards meeting their regulatory obligations.

Beyond these initiatives, MLSA has continued to strengthen its engagement with members, government, industry stakeholders and our valued industry partners. I place considerable importance on ensuring MLSA remains an organisation that listens to its members and responds to the issues that matter to their businesses. Our role is not simply to represent the industry, but to actively contribute to its development and help create an environment in which professional landscaping businesses can prosper.

Looking ahead, I remain committed to the longer-term vision of seeing landscaping recognised as a properly regulated and licensed profession in South Australia. The progress made over recent years demonstrates that meaningful change can be achieved when industry and government work constructively together. There is still considerable work to be undertaken, particularly in developing a licensing framework that is practical, accessible and establishes appropriate benchmarks for professionalism and competency.

As MLSA continues to grow, our focus will remain on advocacy, professional recognition, education, compliance and delivering tangible benefits to our members. I am proud of what the organisation has achieved during 2026 and, importantly, I am equally excited about the opportunities that lie ahead for MLSA and the South Australian landscaping industry

Chris Wiltshire | Chief Executive Officer, MLSA

MLSA
MASTER LANDSCAPERS of SA

FROM THE LIAWA EXECUTIVE OFFICER

The Landscape Industries Association of Western Australia (LIAWA) is the trusted voice of the state's landscaping sector. Membership opens doors to credibility, recognition and business growth. LIAWA members gain the tools to influence industry expectations, promote their services, and operate as accredited, respected providers.

LIAWA is committed to supporting the professional development of its members. With access to practical upskilling courses, proposed block training programs for staff, and a brand-new Waterwise accreditation, members are empowered to raise standards and improve performance. Certification marks and logos further reinforce their reputation for quality, trust, and environmental responsibility.

Members also benefit from staying ahead of industry changes, with timely updates on legislation, training subsidies, and workforce developments. Connections to migration agencies, HR consultants, and sponsorship advisors provide valuable support to navigate today's challenges and tomorrow's opportunities. Meanwhile, regular networking events, forums, and exclusive workshops foster collaboration and community across the sector.

Recognition is another cornerstone of LIAWA membership. Through the annual Awards program, members gain the opportunity to showcase their best work and be celebrated for innovation and excellence. Combined with access to business tools, expert insights, and marketing support, LIAWA equips its members — from new entrants to industry leaders — with everything they need to thrive now and into the future.

PTA LANDSCAPES PTY LTD

LANDSCAPE CONTRACTORS

COMPANY PROFILE

Established in 1983, PTA Landscapes is an award-winning commercial landscape construction contractor with over 40 years of experience delivering high-quality landscape projects throughout Melbourne and regional Victoria.

Specialising in commercial landscapes, playgrounds, educational facilities, healthcare environments, recreational spaces and public open space developments, PTA Landscapes has established a strong reputation for quality workmanship, innovative construction solutions and successful project delivery.

Led by Directors Dion Loncar and Andrew Wilson, the company's experienced management team and skilled workforce collaborate with landscape architects, designers, builders and government authorities to transform landscape designs into functional, durable and visually outstanding environments.

From technically complex urban landscapes and major public parks to playgrounds, school grounds and educational facilities, PTA Landscapes has the experience, resources and construction expertise to deliver projects of varying scale and complexity, with a strong focus on construction programs, budgets and quality outcomes.

PTA Landscapes is a licensed commercial landscape contractor, registered building practitioner and proud member of Master Builders Victoria and Landscaping Victoria, with a strong commitment to workplace safety, environmental sustainability and quality workmanship.

PLANNING & DESIGN DEVELOPMENT

LANDSCAPE DESIGNERS

THIS CHAPTER PROVIDES INFORMATION ON

Landscape Designers

FROM THE LDI PRESIDENT

Great landscapes begin with good design. As Australia's peak professional body representing landscape designers, the Landscape Design Institute connects and supports a diverse community of landscape designers, landscape architects and industry professionals across the country.

For more than 30 years, LDI has championed the value of professional landscape design and the people behind it. Through professional development, industry events, advocacy and opportunities to connect and collaborate, we help our members continue to learn, evolve and thrive.

We also believe in helping the wider community understand the value that skilled design brings to our homes, communities and landscapes – creating places that are beautiful, functional, resilient and responsive to their environment.

Whether you're a landscape professional or looking for the right designer for your next project, LDI is here to help you make those connections with skilled professionals. LDI | Designed for Growth.

Colin Dagger | President, LDI

LANDSCAPE DESIGN INSTITUTE (LDI)

WHY CHOOSE A LDI LANDSCAPE DESIGNER?

A well-designed landscape is about much more than choosing plants. LDI designers combine creative thinking, horticultural knowledge and technical expertise to create outdoor spaces that work beautifully — for the people who use them, the places they inhabit and the environments they are part of.

LDI members work across projects of every scale, from private gardens and residential landscapes to commercial, community and public spaces.

Planning an outdoor project? Find an LDI landscape professional through the Find a Designer directory at ldi.org.au

GROW YOUR CAREER WITH LDI

Landscape design can be an independent profession, but it doesn't have to be an isolated one.

LDI membership connects you with a national professional community and opportunities to learn, share knowledge and build your profile.

Members can access professional development, events and industry connections; connect with fellow designers and allied professionals; promote their practice through our Find a Designer directory; participate in our national awards program; and access specialist member resources, services and partner benefits.

Ready to connect, learn and grow? Discover LDI member benefits at ldi.org.au
